

Blue Crab Fun Bunch at Western Village RV Park, Carlisle, PA, August 2015

Western Village RV Park is located about 3 miles south of Carlisle, PA, and the PA Turnpike. Our run from Mechanicsville took about 3.5 hours not counting a stop for lunch in Frederick, MD, with Richard and Eve. One way mileage using I-495, I-270, I-70 and I-81 was 159 miles.

On Thursday evening in the pouring rain a group of early arrivals went out to dinner at Momma Spriggs restaurant. It was one of those short-notice, crazy things crazy people sometimes do in the rain. By the time we got to the restaurant five miles away, the rain had stopped and the sun was out. Momma Spriggs had been chosen for our Thursday evening meal because Richard had already found it following GPS distractions and we wanted to check it out too. Corky and Terry were late arriving at the restaurant – something about North-up and this turn-by-turn GPS thing.

Our hosts for the campout, Terry and Corky, selected a leisurely schedule for relaxing and enjoying good company in the shade.

Putting up all these decorations had a surprise benefit: I got to see a hummingbird checkout the colorful sun catchers on the wind chimes. There were lots of flowers and feeders around the campground for the hummers.

Playground at the campground was somewhat underutilized. The campground perimeter road had many nice sights.

This pavilion overlooked the middle of the soccer field. The field is well maintained, but does not look like it has had much use lately. The power meter shows some electrical activity going on inside.

Jim, Frank, Mary K, Eve, Shirley, Bob C, Hatti and Pat enjoy some chat at Frank and Mary's site.

Hibiscus at one of the permanent camp sites – no doubt this is a favorite spot for the humming birds.

Mary G records the moment at the cookout at one of the many pavilions around the grounds.

Mary G and Joe still enjoy his Amish hat trying to cover the sprouts.

This pavilion was small, but just right for our group and a short walk from our camp sites.

Richard offers a blessing before dinner.

Corky reads the questions for the Trivia game after dinner on Saturday evening. Eve and Richard promised to not look at each other's answers.

Jim and Pat treated everyone to root beer floats after dinner. Around the tables are Bob C, Frank, Richard, Debbie, Tom, Pat and Jim.

The job's not done until the paperwork is done. Corky shows Ken and Terry how clean up is done.

Our next campout will be at Frontier Town, Berlin, MD, on September 25-27, 2015, about three miles from Ocean City, MD. 800-228-5590. <http://www.frontiertown.com/> One feature attraction for the weekend will be Sunfest on the south end of the Boardwalk. <http://www.oceancity.com/category/photoblogs/events/sunfest-photos/> The campground has free shuttle busses to get you to and from Sunfest.

Our hosts for the Frontier Town campout will be Richard and Eve.

Regards,

Sid
